Suspicious Indiana Folks' Idea of Farmer Pruitt.

Three Wives Thought to Have Been His Victims.

POISON AND SHOOTING.

Claimed All Were Simply Cases

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 12—Picasant Pruitt, the retired farmer who killed his wife with a hammer last night and then anded his own life with a revolver, was a modern Bluebeard. His victims were his three wives. Until a few years ago Pruitt was a wealthy and prominent farmer near Edinburg, Ind. He was a member of an old and well-to-do famlly, a man of more than ordinary intelmember of an old and well-to-do famely, a man of more than ordinary intelligence, and was considered a good member of society. When a young man Pruitt courted and won Miss Van Meter, of Rushville. Four calidren were born to them—Alice, Lesile, Ethel and Clyde, all of whom are now living in Indian-apolis. In 1888 Mrs. Pruitt died of poison. The whole community about Edinburg was shocked, but there was not a hand of suspicion directed at Pruitt. His apparent upright life was the one fact that frustrated an investigation. Many wondered if the woman's death was the result of an accident, but no one made an effort to solve the element of mystery which surrounded the case. Pruitt continued living in their arrogant, copressive and unjustingible attitude toward the miners in their heroic contest and administer a well—merit discount and administer and their arrogant, oppressive and unjusting their arrogant, oppr

Boston, Oct. 13.—One of the features of the present state campaign was the dinner Saturday night which the Democratic club of Massachusetts gave for Col. William A. Gaston, the party candidate for governor. More than 250 party followers listened to speeches by Richard Olney, ex-secretary of state: Charles H. Hamlin, Josiah Quincy, John H. Thuyer, congressman from the Third district; Henry P. Hollis, Democratic candidate for governor in New Hampshire, and Colonel Gaston.

The speech of the evening was that delivered by Mr. Olney, who was cheered for some minutes when he arose. Many greeted him as the next president. Mr. Olney said in part:

"I welcome the opportunity to declare my belief not only that the Law and the courts to decide the way well as a single of the courts to decide the way well as a single of the men under charges, and as many to be taken back as are needed for the operation of the taking back of the men under charges, who the railway company finally conceded this, allowing the courts to decide the way belief not only that the Law and the first many belief not only that the Law and the following the courts to decide the way was the company to the men under charges, and the men under charges, and is many to be taken back as are needed for the operation of the company's lines. CORN BREAD. Fond Recollections of the Days of the Hoe Cake and Flap-Jacks.

With a good meal and a cook following the lessons and traditions of the old regime, delicious bread may be baked of Indian meal. But we have grave doubts whether it can be baked as well in a stove as in an open fireplace. But, alas, of the latter only a few remain.

An ash-cake, of course, must have ashes, They are indispensable. As well try to produce a mint jules without mint. On the other hand, "flap-jucks" need only a well-greased frying pan; but skill is required to turn them. That is done by pitching them out of the pan into the air and making them come down flap on the other side. The corn pone may be cooked the store or range.

The hoe-cake was originally cooked on a hole in the fields and in the negro cabin.

A skillet will do well enough for it, but must be well greased at the bottom. So, too, with respect to egg or batter bread.

As for corn muffins, the appliances of a range are admirably adapted to them.

We wish some milliomatre would fit up a Virginia country home in ante-bellum style, and among other things have in it will be a big open fireplace, a black cook in a big open fireplace, a black cook in the style, and considered an ince house and an old-time garden, filled with raspberries and gooseberries, thyme, sage, currants and all the ordinary miled with raspherries and gooseberries, 1925, thyme, sage, currants and all the ordinary table vegetables.

When one of those old-time homes and gardens and kitchens is restored, and the lists host and hostess have entered into possible session, we desire to be listed as a frequent great with a reserved seaf in the quent guest, with a reserved seal in the chimney corner. Then all we shall want will be the zest, the appetite, the vorac-iousness we possessed when we could eat eighteen rolls and six eggs for breakfast, and consume a whole watermelon between meals. But, alas, it would be easier to restore old walls and open fireplaces than to bring back the digestion and storage capacity of a youth that's gone, of a time that's past and never can return.—Richmond Dispatch.
